

Cookie Policy

In accordance with Regulation 6 of the Privacy and Electronic Communications (EC Directive) Regulations 2003, we would like to inform you about the use of cookies on our website and draw your attention to the possibility of changing your browser settings if the current use of cookies does not suit your preferences.

What are cookies?

Cookies are small text files that can be sent to your internet browser when you visit a website and stored on your device (computer or any other device with internet access, such as a smartphone or tablet). These cookies are stored in a folder on your internet browser. Cookies typically contain the name of the website they come from and the date of their creation. When you visit the website again, the browser reloads these cookies and sends this information back to the website that originally created them. The cookies we use do not damage your computer.

Use of cookies

By using the websites operated by Concord Capital Intelligence, you agree to the use of cookies in accordance with your browser settings. If you visit our website, have cookies enabled in your browser, do not change your browser settings, and continue to browse our site, we consider this as acceptance of our cookie usage terms.

Why do we use cookies?

We use cookies to optimally create and continuously improve our services, tailor them to your interests and needs, and enhance their structure and content, as well as to provide you with interesting offers. Concord Capital Intelligence does not use the data obtained through cookies as contact information to reach you via mail, email, or phone.

How can you change cookie settings?

Most internet browsers are initially set to automatically accept cookies. You can change this setting to block cookies or to alert you when cookies are being sent to your device. Instructions on how to change your cookie settings can be found in the "help" section of each browser. If you use different devices to access our website (e.g., computer, smartphone, tablet), we recommend adjusting the cookie preferences on each browser for each device according to your preferences.

Why keep your cookie settings?

The use of cookies and allowing them in your web browser is up to you. However, if you change the cookie settings, some features of our website may be limited, and your user experience may be reduced.
